
Nicks SBS Intsall

Posted by John Kay - 2008/07/20 08:41

Hey Guys,

It's been a while. When will you finish the install on Nicks Deco Server? I am sure I am not the only one waiting for this I am sure Nick is waiting for this to be done (come on Nicky, pull your finger out) anyways, still enjoying the show.

All the best

John :)

Re:Nicks SBS Intsall

Posted by John Kay - 2008/07/30 16:15

how rude, no responses, this forum has changed!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Re:Nicks SBS Intsall

Posted by Jon - 2008/07/30 16:32

John I'm with you.....I want to see the end result and I'm not the only one! Nicky time to suck it up and put your SBS hat on for a day or so....

Re:Nicks SBS Intsall

Posted by Nicky Curtis - 2008/07/30 18:08

Hi Guys,

Well, sorry but I did Nicks server last Sunday. We were gonna film it but decided that it just needed doing. Anyway it wasn't very exciting. All I did was.

Logon individually as each of the five users, export the mail to a PST, then export the public folders to PST.

Join the workstations to the new domain, logged on as the users and then import the PST file back.

Copied the old profile over the new to maintain previous setting, i.e. Favorites, desktop, documents.

Oh and then mirrored the disks.

And that was about it really. I gotta admit I am no SBS expert and I know I could have used the swing migration method, however this seems to give some problems for some people and as their was only 5 users, I knew a more manual approach would definetely work well.

Cheers guys,

Nicky

Re:Nicks SBS Intsall

Posted by Jon - 2008/07/30 19:16

Wished that you had filmed it as it would have been great to see.

:(

=====

Re:Nicks SBS Intsall
Posted by Greg Fyn - 2008/07/30 20:59

Yup....Safety first! B)

=====